POWER YOUR FUTURE. Dare to Compete.

2012 LA Watts Summer Games

In 1968, members of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber sought a positive response to the Watts Riots and established the LA Watts Summer Games in an effort to build bridges of understanding through spirited competition. Ever since, the Games attract thousands of young people to Watts and connect people from one neighborhood to the next.

See Tomorrows Stars Today

Student athletes from 115 high schools will compete in the 2012 LA Watts Summer Games. John Elway and Florence Griffith Joyner competed in the games before they were stars and the tradition continues. Only those who attend will see tomorrow's stars today.

Be a Part of Something Special

The Games bring people together and brings resources to the community at large. Join us at this special event and visit with exhibitors, sponsors, and community leaders.

The Games take place on June 9, 10, and 16 at Ted Watkins Memorial Park, the Home Depot Center, Cal State University, Dominguez Hills, and local high school facilities. This year's tournaments include Volleyball, Basketball, Lacrosse, Soccer, Softball, Football and a Golf exhibition.
